

Souvenir kiosk opens in December

December 1, 2016

The Bradbury Science Museum Association will sell an assortment of items.

Beginning in December, Museum visitors can buy a variety of souvenir items at a kiosk manned by members of the Bradbury Science Museum Association (BSMA). The items, which will run from about $1 to $35, will initially include such things as ceramic and travel mugs, T-shirts, caps, flash drives, pens, and sports bags. Many will carry the Museum's logo.

As the BSMA is still getting up to speed, the hours that the kiosk will operate will vary, but the association would like the kiosk to be available during peak weekend operating hours.

If you see the kiosk in the lobby, you'll know it's open for business.

As time goes on, the BSMA hopes to add more inventory.

In addition to selling branded merchandise, the BSMA is accepting memberships and donations. Becoming a member of the organization entitles you free entry to a number of science museums around the world that are more than 90 miles (as the crow flies) from Los Alamos.

Another opportunity to help is through volunteering. Assistants such as museum docents, science demonstrators, and kiosk attendants are needed. To learn more, visit the BSMA's "Volunteers" page or contact KayLinda Crawford.

We're very excited that for the first time in our 50-year history our visitors will have an opportunity to extend their Museum experience by taking a memento home! We know it's something many of you have asked about through the years.

The funds raised through sales, memberships, and donations will be used to further the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) education outreach of the Bradbury Science Museum

We appreciate your support!
